Descriptions Prior to Events of Concern

[Daniels] was a relatively calm man who was rarely ever mean to anyone. He was nice at his job, and seemed to have his life in order. At the time he was on venlafaxine and seemed to be moderately happy with his life.

I personally never noticed much about [Daniels]. He didn't seem like your typical madman, more like a random, fun person that you love to hangout with. His demeanor changed a few times, but it was never as severe as described in the [events of concern].

CLOSURE

While this case remains unsolved to this day, we still have a significant amount of knowledge about what could have happened to John Daniels. Maybe he finally gave in to [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]. Maybe he didn't, and instead just faked his own death to throw the media off of him. Maybe he is trying to live a new life. There are too many possibilities to determine a certain outcome. The Adington Police Force is continuously working on finding the resolution that everyone desires. Until we manage to find out what happened to Daniels, we will update the public on the state of our search.
